

Wetting The Bed

2009 Darwin Award Nominee - Confirmed True by Darwin

Thirty-year-old Devan LeAnn, was visiting Lake Ehrling with a male friend. Recent bouts of heavy rain had resulted in a flood of water, and they decided it would be fun to take a mattress carrying them down the surging water in the furrow that leads the access water away.

Unfortunately Leann was riding a foam mattress pad. Imagine - a wet foam mattress pad. Are you sinking yet?

According to her friend, LeAnn simply vanished from sight at dusk. The next morning her dead body was found in a tangle of trees 70 yards below the furrow.

Parents, warn your children! Wetting the bed can be deadly.

Words:

recent	=	senaste, nya	access	=	överflödigt	simply	=	helt enkelt
bouts	=	anfall	unfortunately	=	tyvärr	vanished	=	försvann
surging	=	svallande, böljande	foam	=	skum	dusk	=	skymning, dunkel
furrow	=	fåra	mattress pad	=	bäddmadrass	tangle	=	trassel, oreda